1. Upon Arrival

Let the roots thaw out slowly

Most plants are shipped frozen at 28°F (-2°C) to keep them dormant. If the plant material is still frozen upon arrival please leave it in a cool, dry place to thaw out slowly so that it is able to adapt.

Plants need fresh air: open all boxes and bags immediately upon receipt, but prevent dehydration.

Temperature and condensation will build up inside closed boxes, causing sprouting and rotting. However, plant material in open boxes can dry out easily, so ventilation should be minimal and prevent direct sunlight at all times.

Check the condition of the roots in the boxes daily.

Plants that have started to sprout must be planted immediately. If any sign of fungal or bacterial infection is suspected, plants can not be stored anymore. Infected parts must be removed and the plants treated with fungicide and/or bactericide.

Items that do not tolerate storage must be planted immediately.

Do not leave the plant material longer than necessary in the boxes and bags, for storage will reduce vigor for every species. If unable to transplant immediately, store in a cool place (2-8°C/36-46°F). When stored at higher temperatures with lower humidity, the vigor will be reduced dramatically. At temperatures higher than 68°F (20°C), the roots must be planted within 24 hours.

2. Planting

Do not plant roots that are still frozen.

Frozen roots are not able to transport water to the buds. If the buds have thawed out before the roots have, they can be damaged by dehydration. Do not force thawing as this will create stressful conditions to the roots and buds.

Handle the roots with great care to avoid breaking of buds and/or roots.

Some species have fragile buds and/or roots. Breaking off may decrease plant size.

Don't let roots dry out during potting.

Prevent dehydration of the roots by planting them right away after you have taken them out of the box. Serious damage to fine-haired roots like Phlox can be done in 10 minutes, they can dry out in 20 minutes! Make sure the potting room is free of draught. Always cover roots during breaks.

Rootpinching

Some plants root better if the roots are pinched (see table)

Soil

It is necessary to use a well-drained potting soil to avoid roots staying wet, which can cause them to rot. Many problems come from a lack of adequate drainage. Don't give plants fertilizer before they are actively growing.

Firm the soil around the roots: prevent air pockets

Roots should be centered in the pot and spread out evenly, with all roots facing downward. There must be good contact between all parts of the roots and the soil. Firm the soil around the roots. All of this is necessary for the roots to absorb water and nutrients.

Many perennials should be planted "high"

Results of experiments conducted by Dr. Bill Miller of the Cornell University suggest that many perennials should be planted with the crown (intersection of the roots and the shoots) at or slightly above soil level, after watering and settling. Some plants such as Geranium Ballerina showed an almost absolute adhesion to deep planting (1/2 to 1" deep) with a nearly 100% loss. High planting, on the other hand, resulted in nearly 100% survival and good growth (Handling Bareroot Perennials, Growertalks, May 2004, by W.B. Miller and A. Bestic). The most important reason for this, is that plants will receive daylight sooner than when they are planted too deeply. With daylight, plants make energy, which they need for growing. Also, when planted too deeply the crown may stay too wet for too long, which can cause them to rot.

3. After Planting

Water carefully.

After planting in early spring, do not water the first week: in this stage the roots can only accept little moisture and need to be stimulated to look for water. After this, slowly start with watering.

Also, the young shoots are especially vulnerable to overwatering before they appear above the soil: in this critical phase, over watering may cause suffocation of plant parts or damping-off diseases. Be extra careful with irrigation at low temperatures: plant growth is slower, therefore this critical phase lasts longer. Some plants need a regular watering schedule. Once the plants have started to grow, revert to a regular watering schedule. Some plants prefer to be grown "dry," others "wet" (see table). Keep the soil moisture as constant as possible; too much fluctuation will harm the plant.

Fungicide drench

A fungicide drench applied on plant material one to two weeks after planting can prevent problems.

Greenhouse conditions

In early spring, plants have different requirements regarding temperature. Some plants prefer a cold start (35°-55°F / 2°-12°C), some a medium cold start (45°-65°F / 7°-18°C), others a warm start (60°-75°F / 16°-24°C). Prevent the young shoots from freezing at all times: some plants won't give you a second chance! Ventilation in the greenhouse is very important: little ventilation will cause problems with mildew and fungus.

to grow

Paeonia is a genus in the family Paeoniaceae. The botanical name Paeonia goes back to ancient times. Paieon was the god of healing in ancient Greece. Roots from Paeonia officinalis and Paeonia mascula have been used as medicinal herbs. In homeopathy peonies are still used for medicinal purpose for several applications. Flowers of Peonies are also used to prepare perfumes already at the end of the 19th century in the UK and still you can buy Peony scented perfumes.

Paeonia

The 'all-round' garden and ornamental perennial

This perennial is one of the most popular garden and ornamental plant and loved by both growers and consumers. A number of varieties are also suitable as cut flowers. Paeonies are extremely hardy and initiate new flower buds during the colder months in winter.

- Roots are available for planting in the fall and/or spring.
- Most varieties are available as 2-3 eye or 3-5 eye roots.
- Perfect for 'container' production.
- Outstanding 'landscape' plant.
- Popular 'mailorder' item.

Itoh Paeonia is produced by crossing the lutea-hybrid-tree Paeonia (woody stemmed) with the lactiflora cultivars. The first known success was for mr. Toichi Itoh from Japan. That's why this group is called Itoh Paeonia.
